

Dried Fish Products at a Shanghai Department Store

1. Dried seafood is more expensive in the department stores. Consumers are willing to pay for the higher quality and sanitation that the department store provides over the open air markets.

2. Various dried fish including some dried fish cakes.

3. Dried sea cucumbers. The cucumbers become black from salt and a charcoal mixture that is removed through soaking. These dried sea cucumbers can keep for years.

4. Less expensive dried fish is prepackaged and placed on the shelves for easy access.

5. Dried local fish
(butterflied)

6. Dried Sea bass

